Redding Rancheria Welcomes Assistant Secretary of Indian Affairs Scott Davis for Site Visit and Community Engagement

The Redding Rancheria was honored to host Scott Davis, Acting Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs with the U.S. Department of the Interior, for an official visit to the Redding area this week on behalf of this Administration.

During his visit, Assistant Secretary Davis toured several key Redding Rancheria facilities, including the future Redding Rancheria Tribal Health Center site and I-5 Casino Resort Project site. His visit included meetings with Tribal leadership and local community partners.

In addition to project and facility tours, Assistant Secretary Davis explored significant cultural and community landmarks, including Turtle Bay Exploration Park, the historic Cascade Theatre, and the Redding Rodeo Grounds, which highlighted the Tribe's deep ties to the region and its commitment to cultural preservation and community collaboration.

The Redding Rancheria deeply appreciates the engagement and support of Assistant Secretary Davis. His visit reflects a continued commitment to working collaboratively with Tribal Nations to support sovereignty, economic development, and the well-being of our communities.
